WORLD NEWS

Prankster Strikes Again

Law officials are on the lookout for the individual responsible for a recent prank, which left many with lower back injuries and hernias. With the land being absent of a monarch for far too long, the miraculous appearance of a sword in a stone seems to have addressed the people's cries for order. Etched writing on the blade not concealed by the stone reads "Whosoever shall pulleth this sword from this stone shall become.." There are few citizens of the land not familiar with the old tale of how a squire won a kingdom by pulling a similar sword from a stone. As word spread, the crowds began to gather, as determined individuals would try their hand at the task of drawing the sword, with no avail. Disgruntled citizens finally descended upon the boulder with sledgehammers and pickaxes in hand, revealing that the sword was reinforced with several pieces of rebar and the remaining writing on the sword stating "Cheater! LOL!"

Buccaneer's Den
Celebrates One-Thousandth Murder.

(Received by message in a bottle)

Citizens of Buc's Den have something to cheer about; having hit an unprecedented one thousand murders within its borders. An official who asked to remain anonymous stated that many didn't think that this day would ever come considering the slump in tourism over the last few years. The town's most recent victim was found washed up on shore and there was some concern that the body may have drifted from somewhere else until the innkeeper, Stabby McGillicutty confirmed that the individual rented a room in his establishment the prior evening. The town expects a reasonable turnout and plans are in order for a life-size cake in the shape and likeness of the victim to be sliced into pieces by celebrants. Igor's Men will perform vulgar sea shanties for the crowd and festivities will include a face-punching contest.
Event organizers ask that outsiders don't stare or make inconsiderate comments about the residents' many wooden legs and hooks as there are those very sensitive about these things.

Spoiled Food is a Thing of the Past

Are you tired of spoiled food? Have you had enough of over-salted meats and fish? Do your leftovers end up being throwaways? Then put those days of food poisoning and unpalatable fare behind you with Etherware. Etherware is the revolutionary sealable food storage system that utilizes ethereal forces to lock in freshness, because etherware generates a static bubble of inert time to prevent spoilage and keep food protected from diabolical chaos entities that prey on innocent foods. Don't be fooled by expensive second hand storage like crates or bags or you'll just end up with egg on your face. Reach for the patented food storage system with the Etherware Seal and look forward to many countless days of tasty leftovers.

Smart Home Protection

If you are like me, you are probably tired of inadequate home protection while you are away. Maybe you've had an unfortunate experience returning home, only to be attacked at the door by one or more merciless cutthroats. Some homeowners invest in expensive and unsightly traps only to find them sidestepped by the more clever killer. That is why I developed the only natural murderer solution that received 4 stars from Militant Homeowners Magazine. Using an exclusive crossbreeding method we have created a plant that has the fullness of a large hedge, the elegance of a wisteria bush and the ferocity of a swamp tentacle. We call it the Anti-Murder Bush or the Ambush for short. There is no need to be concerned over rancid bodies littering your property because the Ambush consumes them for vital nutrients releasing a fragrant, fruity aroma that perfumes the air. And there is no reason to be worried about the safety of yourself or your family, because the Ambush is very selective in its feeding habits and only consumes the offal of humanity. So, why just buy one? The Ambush can be found where plants and landscaping goods are sold.

ARTS AND LIVING

Dear Tabi

I am just a guy looking for a little peace and quiet. I used to live next to some broad who turned her house into some sort of parrot sanctuary, and I started looking for greener pastures. After finding a nice isolated locale, I enjoyed a brief period of peace. That is until one of 'those guys' moved in;
you know, the homeowner whose house walls are made of cascading water.

Not only is it an obscene waste of water, but it looks absurd. Not only do I have problems getting to sleep with the noise next door, but I have to get up three times a night to pee.
What does a guy have to do to get himself some peace.

Signed,
Going over the edge.

Dear Over the Edge,

I empathize with you over the current situation though it could be worse... Imagine the waterfall being a gigantic bird bath for the parrots... Lots of sqawking and ungodly amounts of bird droppings everywhere. Perhaps I am looking at the glass half full in saying that, but I would drop by the closest cotton field and make some legendary ear muffs in hopes of catching a few ZZZzzz's.

Sweet Dreams,
Tabi
